

Public Health England (East Midlands)

Public Health England (East Midlands) exists to protect and improve the health and wellbeing, and reduce health inequalities. We do this through world-class science, knowledge and intelligence, advocacy, partnerships and the delivery across the three domains of public health to:

- 19 Provide health protection services: Meeting the challenge of infectious and non-infectious hazards, alongside emergency preparedness and coordination of system response to outbreaks and incidents
- 20 Support health improvement and promote actions: Building healthy places, people and communities through monitoring health need, sharing evidence briefings and facilitating networks
- 21 Deliver healthcare public health: Input to the development and commissioning of sustainable health and care services with a focus on meeting population health needs, prevention and early intervention, integrated pathways, equity and value

The East Midlands Leadership Academy (EMLA)

The East Midlands Leadership Academy (EMLA) can build your organisation's capacity for "System Leadership" in line with the transformation agenda articulated in the Five Year Forward View (FYFV). We can support you by:

- 22 Facilitation: conversations, connections, networks and relationships across organisations and sectors
- 23 Developing the leadership and improvement skills of staff: Getting them to think beyond organisational boundaries
- 24 Tailored response: Working with organisations and systems on a bespoke basis to align leadership development to needs and priorities and then developing them against objectives

Within the East Midlands there are a number of health organisations with the same region-wide footprint. Whilst our remits are different we share a collective aim; to serve the East Midlands' 4.5M residents, improving health outcomes for the patients and the public.

We are individually and collaboratively committed to working with our health and social care colleagues to explore all opportunities to share resources, develop joint projects and reduce the risk of duplication.

Clinical Research Network: East Midlands

Clinical Research Network: East Midlands (CRN: EM) can offer organisations, patients and carers access to early engagement in cutting edge clinical research, including pioneering clinical trials and early drug treatments. Engaging with research contributes to longer term evidenced based treatments and supports quality improvement, innovation and evaluation. CRN: East Midlands can support you by:

- 1 Providing early access to research for patients diagnosed with dementia: Through Join Dementia Research, a national campaign delivered locally
- 2 Facilitating involvement in high quality research: Across all clinical specialties, enabling organisations to offer patients the very latest treatment options and improvement to future healthcare
- 3 Attracting and retaining a high calibre multi professional, transferable workforce: Clinical research provides an enhanced career path that is both intellectually challenging, and highly rewarding, with wide spread benefits for staff and patients, both now and in the future

East Midlands Clinical Networks

East Midlands Clinical Networks supports health systems to improve health outcomes of their local communities by connecting commissioners, providers, professionals, patients and the public across a pathway of care to share best practice and innovation, measure and benchmark quality and outcomes, and drive improvement. We focus on the four disease and population groupings, as well as being responsive to local priorities: cardiovascular (stroke, renal, diabetes, vascular and cardiology), cancer, maternity and children, and mental health, dementia and neurological conditions. We can help to:

- 7 Enable clinical and patient engagement: Informing commissioning decisions
- 8 Define and drive quality improvement: operating across complex pathways of care
- 9 Coordinate and support commissioners and providers: reducing unwarranted variation, improve cohesion and ensure sustainable services within a single pathway of care for staff and patients, both now and in the future

Health Education East Midlands

Health Education East Midlands are your partner for workforce transformation, as covered in the Forward View Into Action (July 2015). We can work with you to:

- 13 Develop local workforce strategy: Networks supporting the gathering of intelligence and planning for the future workforce, including workforce scenario modelling. Targeted support, for example Vanguard's will be provided with self-assessment tools to assess their capacity and capability for workforce redesign, identifying local gaps.
- 14 Explore new and extended roles, skills and training: Practical support to new and extended roles including research, development and piloting (e.g. physician associates, care navigators, pharmacists in GP Practices, clinical fellowships). Common skill descriptors and job descriptions for new and extended roles. Frameworks for role development to create new skill mix in each of the care models.
- 15 Identify new ways of working: Act as a convenor for the workforce agenda in health and healthcare. Develop roles which, from inception, will work across boundaries in a collaborative approach to the care of patients in each of the care models.

East Midlands Academic Health Science Network

East Midlands Academic Health Science Network improves the health of the East Midlands' 4.5m population through the adoption and spread of proven innovation at pace and scale. We achieve this by bringing together the NHS, universities, industry, third sector and social care to transform health and generate economic growth for the region. We can support you by:

- 4 Convening and aligning: Operating nationally, regionally and locally across health and social care, industry, academia and the third sector, we are uniquely placed to help you make connections, identifying opportunities for collaboration and supporting efficient and effective service delivery
- 5 Navigating and signposting: Helping you find your way around the complex health and social care system, linking in to established networks and identifying opportunities for support, advice and funding
- 6 Providing and resourcing: We have access to expert, independent and specialist advice and services that could help put your innovation into practice

East Midlands Clinical Senate

East Midlands Clinical Senate brings together a range of health and social care professionals, with patients, to provide a source of strategic, independent clinical advice and leadership on how services should be designed to provide the best overall care and outcomes for patients, linking clinical expertise with local knowledge. We can support you by:

- 10 Providing clinical advice, act as an honest broker, and if required, undertake reviews to areas where there may be lack of consensus in the local health system
- 11 Providing independent clinical advice to commissioners: Focusing on major service change programmes, to inform the NHS England service change assurance process
- 12 Improving outcomes and value: Working with you to identify aspects of health care where there is potential to improve outcomes and value. Provide proactive advice about the areas for inquiry or collaboration, and the areas for further analysis of current evidence and practice

NIHR CLAHRC East Midlands

NIHR CLAHRC East Midlands works with more than 50 local partners from universities, the NHS, industry and the public to improve health outcomes across the region thus delivering and implementing world class health research to ensure healthier and longer lives for residents in the East Midlands. We can support you with:

- 16 Student placements and capacity building: Capacity building within your organisation to encourage professional development and a research-active workforce, in line with the aim to "support a modern workforce" articulated in the Five Year Forward View (FYFV).
- 17 Evaluations: we bring together extensive expertise in applied health research and evaluation for complex interventions. The evaluation and appraisal services we offer can be tailored to meet partner needs, including large-scale programme evaluations to short-scale 'fact-finding' enquiries.
- 18 Knowledge brokers: We can help your staff and services develop partnerships with HEI, industry and the voluntary sector, as well as helping them to reach and engage communities.
